National 4-H Week Observed

Oct. 4-10 has been designated as National 4-H Week.

Here in Saginaw County we have made a special attempt to publicly promote the 4-H story and the many benefits it has to offer todays youth.

As a special tribute to Saginaw County 4-H Members as well as Leaders, Mr Elmer Frahm, Chairman of the County Board of Supervisors and Mr Warren Light, Mayor of the City of Saginaw have proclaimed this week (Oct. 4-10) as National 4-H Week in Saginaw County and have requested that officials and citizens of both the county and city join in appropriate observance of this week.

The 4-H flag will be flown along with the American flag at the courthouse all week. Plans are being made with assistance of leaders from local to promote 4-H in all county schools.

We hope that through the efforts and the assistance of all 4-H Leaders in Saginaw County, in promoting 4-H during this week-long observance, that we can develop a greater awareness in the many youngsters and adults, who haven't had an opportunity to become involved in 4-H, or the many benefits and opportunities and rewards that 4-H has to offer.

Autumn Leaves Is Another Big Show

On Sunday evening, October 3, 1971, the Fifth Annual Miss Autumn Leaves Beauty Pageant was presented at the Saginaw Auditorium by the businessmen of Northeast Saginaw. The pageant was under the direction of Mr. Jim Colvin, with the contestants themselves under the able supervision of Miss Joyce Williams, who is also an employee of the Saginaw Housing Commission.

The show was opened with a bang, to a near-capacity crowd, by the fine instrumental sounds of the Soul Inspirations. This group set the stage for the youthfully dignified two-and-a-half-hour show that followed.

Next on stage was the Mistress of Ceremonies, the beautiful and charming Miss Demene Hall. A native of Saginaw, Miss Hall is now studying drama at Oakland University. After welcoming the audience and giving a brief history of the Autumn Leaves Pageant, Miss Hall brought to the stage the Pageant's producer-director, Mr. Jim Colvin. He expressed gratitude to the sponsors, those northeast Saginaw merchants without whom there would be no Autumn Leaves Pageant, and to others who had given many hours of their time to make the Fifth Annual Pageant the biggest and best ever.

Miss Hall then proceeded to introduce the contestants themselves, to be seen for the first time by both audience and judges. For this presentation the young ladies wore street-length semi-formal costumes. Forming a rainbow of dark and pale colors, in fabrics from chiffon to velvet.

As the contestants walked from the stage, Miss Mable Freeman was introduced; she sang the stirring "Black National Anthem," and then the Pageant's haunting theme, "Autumn Leaves."

Then the talented Tempting Three, in pale pink fitted pants costumes, danced their way to their three microphones, and sang three of their favorite rock hits, with genuine professional polish. Obviously a group to watch closely in the coming months.

MISS AUTUMN LEAVES

Next came the fabulous Autumn Leaves Dancers, a hit as annual as the Pageant itself. In boldly printed hot-pants, Brenda, Glenda, and Ivy cut loose, broke down, and generally worked out to the music of James Brown's "Hot Pants," for a cheering audience of over 800 people.

Following the Dancers, one of the contestants, Miss Lee Marie Jackson, came to the podium to present a special award, on behalf of all the contestants, to the one person they had selected as the Most Outstanding Citizen of northeast Saginaw. The girls chose, with no suggestion from anyone, the one person who had given the most of himself to them as teenagers and to the community at large.

Miss Jackson announced that this year the contestants had chosen to give their award to Reverend Roosevelt Austin, pastor of Zion Baptist Church.

engraved plaque, Reverend Austin said, "It isn't very often that a Baptist preacher doesn't have anything to say." And with a simple, humble, and totally flabbergasted "thank you" he stepped down, taking with him the plaque, and a memory to cherish for many years.

Then came the event known as the "Competition Walk," in which each contestant is introduced separately, spends a few minutes alone on the huge round Auditorium stage as her resume is read, then comes to the podium to answer a question about personal opinions or current events.

For this presentation, the contestants wore formals (some self-designed and hand-made) of every style and color, from angelic long-sleeved white chiffon, lady-like pastel florals with dainty ruffles, to daring red taffeta with Elizabethan stand-up collar, elegant purple velvet with high collar and three-button lace cuffs, even exotic black edged with Cleopatra-like gold borders.

The questions asked the contestants were interesting ones, and some of the answers were even more so. Many showed the youthful idealism of most young people, as they expressed desires to become well-educated, successful in the non-financial sense, and to cause the world to be a better place through their ideas and actions.

Some answers were less predictable. Miss Debra Burch answered a question on Women's Liberation with a very strong statement against that controversial new trend, saying "Women will never be able to do a man's job."

Miss Josie Sherman stated that she most admired the well-known gospel singer, Miss Mahalia Jackson "for sticking to what she believed in" over her long and sometimes difficult career.

Miss Connie Jackson answered her question, very wisely and perceptively, with the statement that a woman's most desirable quality is understanding, which in her mind was essentially a quality of warmth.

Another contestant who would later become Miss Autumn Leaves, stated very simply and earnestly that a woman develops a healthy self-image by being herself.

And by the same token, a young lady becomes Miss Autumn Leaves by winning the crown not for her sponsor, not for her mother, not for her boyfriend, but for herself alone.

After the competition walk, which is the longest portion of the program, the contestants came back onto the stage in their long rainbow line, each carrying a silver box with huge pink bow, gifts from a generous downtown businessman.

At that point, assistant director Joyce Williams presented another special award on behalf of the contestants, this time to one of their own number: the Miss Congeniality Award. This award, including a gift certificate and a single red rose, was presented by toddler Tanya Williams to Miss Ranee Hope, whom the girls had selected as the friendliest and most helpful to everyone.

Then Mistress of Ceremonies Miss Demene Hall interupted Miss

$1.9 Million Is Saginaw UF Goal

The United Fund of Saginaw County will attempt to raise a record of $1,996,385 in the annual campaign, which opens October 28 and lasts through November 17.

This year's goal is $110,610 above the $1,885,775 raised in 1970 and represents a 5.7 percent increase.

Stanley M. Jurrens, United Fund board chairman, called the $1,996,385 goal the "absolute minimum for meeting the service needs" of social service agencies in Saginaw County which the "Give Once for All 70" campaign underwrites. Jurrens stated, "The increased goal reflects primarily increased programming in two areas: 1) funding for the new Red Cross blood program for the last half of 1972 (the first year of the Red Cross blood program's operation is financed by monies from foundations and 2) the reorganization and realistic financing of the Saginaw Valley Rehabilitation Center which is improving and expanding its services for the handicapped."

All other agencies have been told approximately to their 1971 program levels. Jurrens added, "An increase of 2 percent will be needed just to maintain the agency services now offered due to the new law effective January 1, 1972 that all non-profit organizations will be subject to unemployment compensation tax and also due to the increase in the cost of Blue Cross and Blue Shield and miscellaenous other operating expenses."

According to Jurrens, "The Allocations and Budget Committee recommended a goal of $2,099,435 as a minimum to meet substantiated agency needs, but the executive board approved the $1,996,385 as a more realistic figure, taking into consideration the current local economic picture."

The United Fund of Saginaw County is the fund-raising agency which annually solicits money from individuals, businesses, organizations and foundations for distribution to 70 local, state and national health and community agencies, thus eliminating seventy independent drives. The United Fund then allocates the funds to the individual local agencies. A smaller portion is budgeted for state and national agencies through the Michigan United; however, an allocation of approximately $5,000 budgeted for the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency and $1,300 budgeted for the National Council on Crime and Delinquency have been temporarily suspended pending resolution of the difference of opinion that currently exists between the NCCD and the Sportsmen's Alliance of Michigan on gun restrictions' position statements.

The projected budget for 1972, subject to review by the A & B Committee after the campaign, has tentatively ear-marked $1,655,069 for regular agency appropriations, including $170,000 for Michigan United Fund budgeted state and national agencies ($5,322 less than the $175,322 requested and only $3,454 more than the 1971 allocation of $166,546). The $1,655,069 for regular appropriations represents 82.9 percent of the total goal.

$97,840 or 4.9 percent of the 1972 goal is budgeted for campaign costs, with $101,760 (5.1 percent) for the Community Chest, $41,916 (2.1 percent) Central Services, $7,840 (0.4 percent) to the United Way of America and $99,800 (5 percent) as a collection loss, as deductions are not made when an employee is laid off, ill, or otherwise not earning an income.

Jurrens noted that contributions would have to be increased 5.7 percent to meet the goal. Jurrens stated, "It is too early to determine what effect the price and wage freeze will have on this year's United Fund campaign, but anything which stimulates a healthier economic climate should help."

The campaign chairman, Richard E. Schenck, president of First Savings and Loan, will lead a corps of 3,000 volunteers in the $1,996,385 fund-raising effort.

Schenck announced, "The theme for our campaign this year is 'Let's Thank God We Can' and with the cooperation of everyone — we will."

Autumn Leaves

Williams in mid-sentence with a surprise announcement. The contestants, she said, had another gift to give. Miss Lee Marie Jackson again stepped to the microphone, handed Miss Williams a gold-wrapped gift box, kissed her on the cheek, and expressed the gratitude of all of the girls for her concern, her helpfulness, and her expert advice during the two weeks of intensive rehearsals. Miss Williams spent many hours ironing out all kinds of difficulties, checking details, holding extra rehearsals, calming last-minute jitters, and straightening a curl here and a ruffle there on the Big Night. The girls expressed their thanks.

Now the judges had to count up points and examine every detail of the competition they had just seen from their "ringside" seats at front row center. Theirs was the most difficult job of the evening.

To give them plenty of time, the Autumn Leaves Dancers again took the stage, this time in velvety brown hot-pants skirts. Again they earned healthy applause.

Next came the exciting and very popular local group, the Atos. These four young men danced and harmonized their way through seveeral numbers, including "Power to the People," and others.

At last, the judges sent word that they had completed their decision.

The contestants returned to the stage to await the announcement in nervous silence.

Miss Hall opened the Judges' envelope and began to read: "For Miss Autumn Leaves of 1971, the second runner-up is. . .Miss Rosalinda Ortega!" Miss Ortega stepped forward beaming to accept her applause and a dozen yellow roses.

"First runner-up. . .Miss DeMerris Biggins!" Miss Biggins stepped forward to uproarious applause, and the roses were brought again.

By this time the entire audience had stopped breathing. The final announcement was read by Miss Hall in hushed but excited tones: "Miss Autumn Leaves of 1971 is. . .Miss. . Lee Marie Jackson!"

It was as it a single shout rose from the audience, as Miss Jackson left her place in the line and walked trembling, smiling through tears, to center stage. Director Jim Colvin met her there, carrying on a cushion the sparkling crown that was worn by four queens before her. With Mr Colvin was Miss Autumn Leaves of 1970, the exquisite Miss Christine Jernigan, who placed a bouquet of red roses in Miss Jackson's arms and helped to crown her successor.

The pose, confidence, and maturity of the new Miss Autumn Leaves was just as evident as she walked firmly to each end of the long stage, bowing and smiling, as it had been throughout the Pageant.

Another Miss Autumn Leaves Beauty Pageant has come and gone; another fine group of young ladies has worked, rehearsed, studied, and competed, for the title of Miss Autumn Leaves.

But in the eyes of everyone who worked with these fine girls, "There are no losers here; every one of you is a winner. You've proved that by being here."

These were director Jim Colvin's first words to the contestants at the very first rehearsal. And now that the Pageant is over, these words can only be more true.

"We hope you enjoyed the show. Good night, everybody! And we'll see you next year!"

NEWS THAT YOU ARE A PART OF

OCTOBER 8, 1971

GREAT LOSS — The resignation of Versie Reynolds was a big blow to the Model Cities program.

Reynolds Departure Big Loss

September 28, 1971, Mr Versie Reynolds, who has been highly respected by members of the Model Cities Policy Board and by those of the community, devoted towards the well being of the citizens of Saginaw many of his dedicated hours. Mr Reynolds expresses his deep regret for having to resign from the Model City Policy Board, but stated that the demand of his time to continue to head the Policy Board, has caused a conflict with his job and his responsibilities. Mr Reynolds feels he no longer can afford to devote the necessary time to the program.

Also, the political implications of my involvement are increasing daily and, as a Federal employee, I am specifically prohibited by the HATCH Act from participating in partisan political activities. Hopefully I can continue to work with Model Cities through serving on committees or in other capacities which will not create conflicts for me.

One of the most obvious problems has been lack of communication between the contributing elements of our local Program. If we are to guarantee the success of our Model Cities activities, the Policy Board, the City Council and the CDA staff must become more unified. I feel we have developed the components necessary to achieve a successful program and hope that every effort will be made to overcome whatever gaps still exist so that increased and better communications can become a reality in the immediate future.

I feel the First Action Year has resulted in some very worthwhile accomplishments and look forward to even greater success during the Second Action Year as well as following years. It has been a pleasure to work with the members of the Policy Board and I would like to thank each member for participating in the Program.

120 Attend Black Expo In Chicago

Three buses were chartered October 1 to Chicago, Illinois carrying approximately 120 people to the Annual Black Expo of 1971. These three buses were loaded with Black people from Opportunity Industrialization Center (O.I.C.), Poverty People Alliances (P.P.A.), Delta College, Saginaw Valley College and the people of the Saginaw community. Sponsoring these buses were Burger King Restaurant owner, Mr Sam Price, Saginaw O.I.C., Poverty People Alliances, Mr Franklin Gary Community Affairs of Catholic and Edwards Men's Store. The Black Expo was presented by Operation Bread Basket. Heading this program is Rev. Jessie Jackson.

Valley Star reporter talked with Mrs Karlene Beatty, Pearlie Beemon, and Betty O'Neal, three women who attended the Expo. Mrs Beatty, explained that the group set out leaving Saginaw at 7:00 Friday evening, and returned from their wonderful trip Sunday at 6:00 a.m.

Holding a conversation with these women, Pearlie Beemon stated how well she enjoyed the most different painting displayed at the Expo. Cathcing her eye most was a Southern painting, that seemed so real to life, of a couple sitting at home on an old wooden porch that Southerners are so greatly remembered having.

Betty O'Neal also stated that he magnificent paintings shook her a little. But the one that struck her interest was a painting of Muhammed Ali, which appeared so real to Miss O'Neal that it fascinated her very much. The painting was of the fight of Joe Frasier with a frown expression Ali claimed showing a losing feeling. This painting was priced at $3,000 dollars. There also was an abstract painting displayed which seemed to have so many different versions that no one could really figure it out.

Just sitting there discussing the Expo, these women explained how hard it was for them to describe the trip, mainly because it was so different that if you didn't see it for yourself, you could never imagine who it really was. Most important though, the women felt, was the expression of Black Brotherhood, Black Togetherness, Black Happenings. Irs Beatty felt that never before has she seen so many Black people who the majority had never seen each other, but seemed so acquainted, so brotherly. There was a great feeling of love from one Sister to the other Brother.

There were fashions to be seen and admired by those attending the Expo, African styles, Black loungewear and Dashiki of all patterns. Also a great attraction observed was the top pop recorders such as Hu Mackella, Jerry Butler, Curtis Mayfield, Flip Wilson doing his thing, and handsome Clarence Williams III, from the exciting TV picture "Mod Squad". There too was Kem Weston singing the Black National Anthem. The prices to see these stars was only $1.00 general admission, $4.00 was the price to see the Expo.

Pearlie Beemon felt that this Black Expo was something Black People would really be proud of, and an experience no one should have missed.

During the close of the interview Betty O'Neal expressed that her experience was so beautiful, that she wouldn't miss it next year for the world."

Thanks to O.I.C., P.P.A., Mr Sam Price from Burger King, Mr Franklin Gary of Community Affairs of Catholic and Edward's Men's Store for their support in sponsoring this trip was because these agencies made it possible for many persons to attend that may have not been able to afford transportation.

Hopefully more Black people will attend the Black Expo of 1972, so you can become informed and aware.

FREE DAY was spent in studying and working at Ecology at Sacred Heart School.

RAKING THE LAWN and cleaning the grounds kept the groups busy.

Free Day Spent In Ecology Study

Every Wednesday Sacred Heart School has a free day. Wednesday, September 29, 1971 was Ecology Day for them. They started their day by studying about ecology. They saw films and listened to lectures, afterwards there was a discussion about ecology which Dr. Calilio explained in more detail.

A total of 150 students participated in cleaning up. The elementary students picked up paper around the nieghborhood, the junior high school painted, trimmed hedges, washed windows, and raked leaves.

Sister Arlene was in charge of painting the trash cans, Father Sicorski was in charge of the boys painting the walls of the church, and Mr Mark Elliott was in charge of outside cleaning.

Next Wednesday Sacred Heart School will have a picnic.

Study Focuses On Correctional Problems For Young Offenders

By Milton J. Robinson
Executive Director
Michigan Civil Rights Commission

A recently launched study by two University of Michigan professors could someday result in widescale changes in the way this state treats young offenders.

The five-year project, entitled the "National Assessment Study of Correctional Programs for Juvenile and Youthful Offenders," will gather data on existing juvenile correctional programs throughout the United States and attempt to identify those programs or parts of programs best meeting objectives of rehabilitation.

According to the project co-directors, Dr. Rosemary C. Sarri and Dr. Robert D. Vinter, the study should be particularly useful "For policymakers, who must reach major decisions about existing and proposed programs, agency heads and administrators, who are responsible for the operation of these programs and for the judiciary, who must determine the disposition of offenders."

Cooperation Pledged

The co-directors already have received a pledge of cooperation from the Michigan Department of Corrections, which, certainly, will be one of the benefiting agencies.

I see study results enabling the Department of Corrections to compare Michigan with other states in the areas of corrections costs per capita, offender commitment rates and judicial procedures in dealing with youthful offenders.

The study also should identify patterns, if any, in the correctional field and provide information regarding the comparative merits of traditional correctional programs versus innovative, experimental programs in which employment in the community and trips home are permitted.

I will be particularly interested in data concerning the relationship between the length of time a person is imprisoned and the negative attitudes with which he leaves prison.

Imprisonment, in many cases, is not the best answer. The study could very well point this up.

It seems useless for society to tolerate conditions which breed crime and then call for stricter punishment of offenders. The real crime, as I see it, is society's neglect of social conditions such as poverty, discrimination and prejudice.

Areas of Change

Once completed (at a cost of several millions of dolaars), the study may result in substantial changes in laws, police activities and procedures, court procedures and institutional regulations as they relate to youthful offenders.

The correctional methods which didn't work in the past won't work in the future.

And, although a vast amount of research has been directed at understanding the causes and cures of juvenile delinquency, relatively little research has been conducted for direct application to correctional rehabilitation.

This study should help fill the void.

It's apparent to me that the youthful offenders of today are the hardened criminals of tomorrow unless society can "reach" them immediately.

Too often youthful offenders are treated as items in a warehouse; stored away until society is ready to "use" them again.

The problem is. . .many a warehouse lot has rotted in storage.

I-675 Opening Is Set For October 21

LANSING — Seventy-six trombones, five queens and a Steering Gear Assembly, breaking a long chain will help open the $33 million interstate 675 Freeway through Saginaw, Thursday, October 21, 1971.

Public dedication ceremonies opening the entire seven-mile section of I-675, known as the Saginaw Business Loop will be held at 9 a.m. on the Henry G. Marsh Bridge carrying the freeway over the Saginaw River. The Business Loop extends from interstate 75 through Saginaw to rejoin I-75 north of Zilwaukee.

Congressman James Harvey of Saginaw will be the keynote speaker while state highway director Henrick E. Stafseth will make the official presentation of the freeway for public use. Other participants will include Warren C. Light, Mayor of Saginaw, and Elmer Frahm, Chairman of the Saginaw County Board of Commissioners.

Scheduled to participate in the ceremonies are bands from Saginaw, Arthur Hill, Buena Vista, Arthur Eddy Jr., Bridgeport and Carrollton High Schools. They will be joined by the Bridgeport Freshman Band and the Carrollton, Zilwaukee and Webber Junior High Bands.

Official hostesses scheduled to greet visitors and guests are Miss Michigan Highways, 1972, Patricia Schrauben of Lansing; Miss Timbertown, Kathryn A. Allen of Saginaw; Miss Autumn Leaves, Miss Lee Marie Jackson; Miss G. I. Forum, Peggy Sullivan of Saginaw; and Miss Mexican Independence Day, Elodia Reys of Saginaw.

In tradition with Saginaw's Lumbering Past and Industrial Present, A Power Steering Assembly, guided by local officials, will break a long chain opening the Freeway to traffic.

Sponsoring the ceremony will be the cities of Saginaw and Zilwaukee, the Greater Saginaw Chamber of Commerce, the Townships of Buena Vista, Saginaw, Kochville, Downtown Saginaw, Inc., and the City of Zilwaukee in cooperation with the Department of State Highways.

Contractors on the Freeway are Sargent Contracting Co., Saginaw: C. A. Hull Co., Walled Lake; Brown Brothers Inc., Lansing and Canonie Construction Co., South Haven.

The $33 million does not include Right-of-Way acquisition or preliminary engineering costs. Built under the Federal Interstate Construction Program, Michigan's share of the cost is 10 per cent, the U.S. share 90 per cent.

With the opening of the Freeway, a total of 956 miles of Interstate Freeways will be open to traffic in Michigan. This is nearly 81 per cent of the 1,175 miles of Interstate System allocated to Michigan under the Federal Program.

Nationally, more than 32,000 miles of the proposed 42,500 mile system are open to traffic.

Social Security

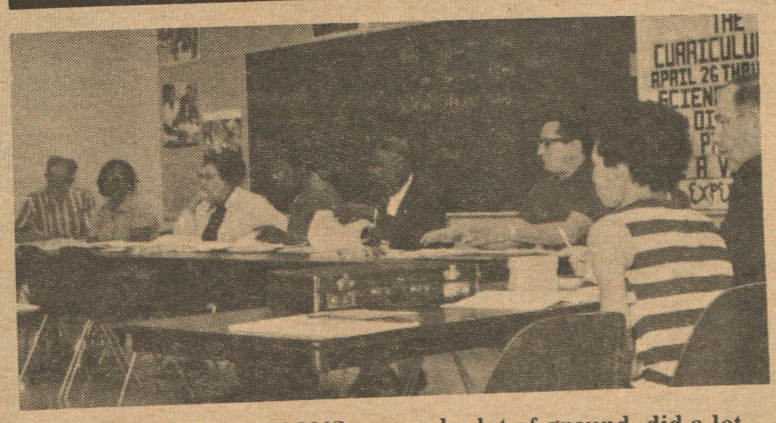
QUESTION: I understand that when a person accepts social security retirement benefits at 62 his benefit is reduced. But, I heard recently that it goes back to the full amount at 65. Is that right?

ANSWER: No. If a person decides to retire at 62 and take the reduced monthly benefit, the benefit amount won't change at 65. However, some people who retire at 62 later return to work. In that case, the benefit could be higher later.

QUESTION: I recently sent a post card form to check on my earnings under social security. When I received a statement of my earnings, I found that there was an error for the year 1969. How do I go about getti t corrected?

ANSWER: You should gather up any information you may have about your 1969 wages (payroll slips, withholding statements, etc.) and call or visit any social security office. The people there will help you straighten out your earnings record.

If you wish information about social security, write to the Social Security Administration, Post Office Box 1487, Saginaw, Michigan 48605, or go to the office at 2130 Marshall Court, Saginaw, Michigan. The office is open Monday through Friday each week.



MARATHON SESSIONS covered a lot of ground, did a lot of serious reviewing.

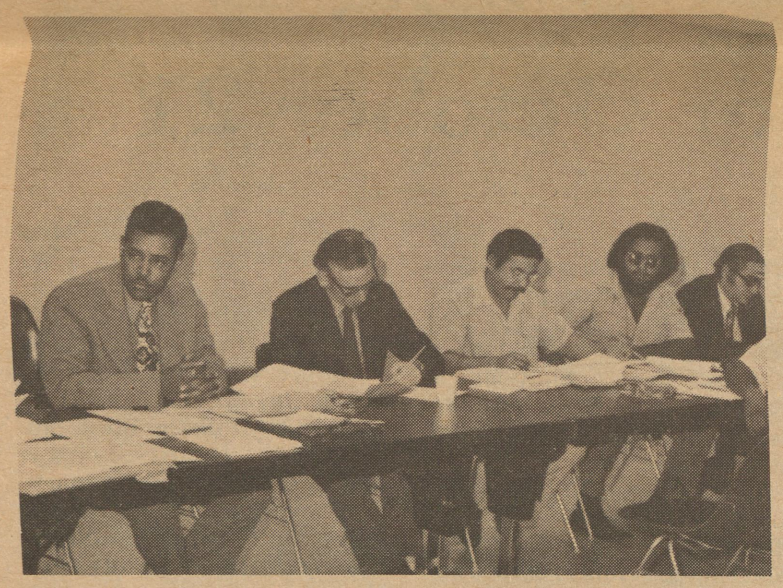
THE PEOPLE SPEAK. . .

Fall Cleaning

Thelma Smith at 517 Athens feels Model City is doing a fine job. She would like to see more playgrounds where kids could play. She feels the Morley Park that is now being built is nice, but she feels that its location isn't to safe, especially for young kids who have to cross the over-pass.

Needs To Know More

Alvin Norman of 819 Athens didn't comment on how he felt about Model City when asked. He said he didn't known to much about Model City but would like to be more involved.



MODEL CITIES POLICY BOARD cuts out the second year budget.

Veterans Memorial Underpass Is Open

A news release was held Thursday, September 20, 1971 at 9:00 a.m., on the subject of the Veterans Memorial Parkway Underpass opening. This underpass discussed at the meeting opened September 21, 1971 at 12:00 noon. The end of the work on the underpass roadway construction between Needham and McGill streets marks the completion of the 4,700 feet of four-lane divided parkway and provides a direct connection between Michigan I-675 at the 18th Street interchange on the south with Washington Avenue (M-13 and M-81) on the north.

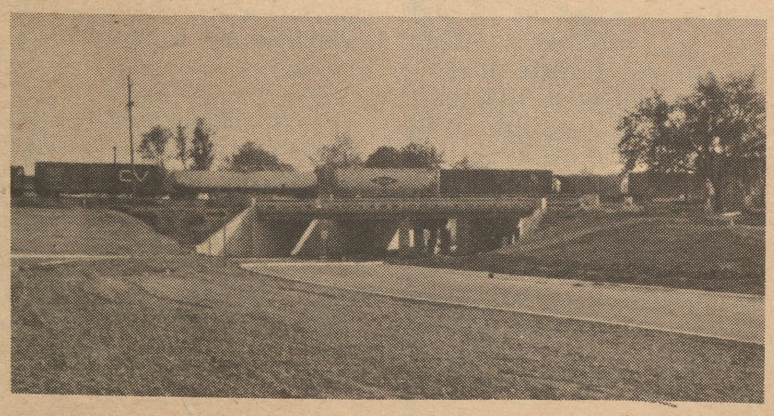
Work on the first phase of the parkway from Washington Avenue south to Needham and from McGill to Wadsworth (I-675 — 18th Street interchange) was begun with a $160,000 contract in 1968 and completed in the summer of 1969. The highway portion underpassing the new Norman Street Bridge and running from Needham to McGill was a 1971 contract costing $202,000. The new bridge and underpass highway construction projects are the result of a series of planning meetings which began in 1964 between representatives of the C&O Railway Company and the City of Saginaw to eleviate mutual problems of street and rail crossing conflicts in the northeast Saginaw.

The $1.1 million Norman Street vehicular and railroad bridge over the Veterans Memorial Parkway was completed in June of 1971 as a joint venture between the City and the C&O Railway Company. The city's cost of all the projects in the highway and bridge system represented a portion of its one-third share of the overall cost of the Eddy Urban Renewal Project No. 2.

This Veterans Memorial Parkway is another achieved completion by the City of Saginaw under the Eddy Urban Renewal projects.

The newly completed system will not only enable traffic to move non-stop from I-675 to Washington Avenue, but it will also eliminate three grade crossings with the C&O Railway (16th, 17th and 20th Streets). Further, it will provide residents of northeast Saginaw quick and easy non-stop access to the downtown area via I-675.

In connection with these projects, two pedestrian overpass bridges will be constructed over the C&O Railway tracks. One of these will be constructed by the City of Norman and Casimir and the second will be built by the C&O Railway Company at Wadsworth Street. The construction of the pedestrian overpass at Wadsworth is scheduled to begin upon the opening of I-675 and the future closing of Wadsworth Street. The $28,000 pedestrian overpass bridge at Norman and Casimir will serve students attending Arthur Eddy School and is scheduled for completion near the end of November, 1971.



IS OPEN — The Veterans Memorial Parkway Underpass now is open.

Miss UF Deadline Extended

The deadline for the Miss United Fund Contest entries has been extended to October 11 in order that all the high schools in Saginaw County will be represented, Jerry Breen, chairman of the Miss United Fund committee, announced today.

Each high school may enter up to three candidates based on the total student enrollment. A school with 500 or less students may enter one candidate; a school with 500 to 1,000 students may enter two candidates and schools with over 1,000 may enter three.

The contestants must be seniors selected on the basis of their scholastic achievement, poise and personality, qualities considered necessary for a Miss United Fund to perform her functions.

Miss United Fund will make appearances at all major campaign events, including report luncheons, division kick-offs, special events and United Fund agency visitations.

The preliminary judging will be held October 13 at the YWCA. Five semi-finalists will be selected to compete for the Miss United Fund title. The final contest will be on October 20 at the YWCA, with Henry Marsh, local attorney — former mayor, as the principal speaker.

Projected mobile home sales of between 20 and 25 million dollars have been predicted for this year by American Photo Copy Equipment Company for its subsidiary companies, Newport Homes, Pine Grove, Pennsylvania and Craftmade Homes of Henderson, Texas.

NAACP Praises 'Leaves'

The NAACP representatives was in attendance of this year's Autumn Leaves presentation, and on behalf of the local chapter we wish to publicly compliment the promoters, the sponsors, the lovely young ladies and all of the other people connected with the promotion to make it the REALLY nice thing it was.

All of the young ladies were winners in our book, although the Judges could select but one, and we think a big compliment should be directed to the many patrons for their behavior, which shows that we as black people can have an enjoyable time without incident. To that we say RIGHT ON!

Melisa Is Sport Writer

Saginaw Valley College makes no claim that she's the only female sports information writer, but Melisa Ferry, a pert brunet from Mt. Clemens, has the job at SVC.

She has complete freedom of action except in one area — there are no locker room interviews.

Miss Ferry, who had no previous experience as a sports writer before enrolling this fall as a freshman at SVC, has to learn the whole sports vocabulary along with other phrases that separate sports writing from covering a city council meeting.

"For instance," she says, "I found out it's a soccer match, not a soccer meet."

She is writing all of the advances, follow-ups, and features that emerge from the varsity sports program at SVC. These areas include soccer, cross country, golf, tennis, and basketball. She also will be covering the women's sports activities, and here she will be ahed of any male writer. She can have locker room privileges.

Melisa plans to major in sociology or political science, but her intial love is newspaper reporting. She is a member of the SVC journalism class and in all probability will qualify for the work-study assignment on a newspaper. Any male sports editor interested in a goodlooking female sports writer?
